Madison burning extended

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Madison residents may continue to burn their tree leaves through New Year's Eve.

At a Madison City Council meeting Tuesday night, the aldermen agreed to extend through December the previous one-month period when citizens could burn leaves.

"We didn't have much good weather in November, so I believe we should extend the deadline," Mayor John Bellicoff said. The council members agreed.

A decision to lift the open leaf-burning ban for one month only was made by the council Oct. 29. Leaf burning is legal in an area the size of Madison, although the city is required to do all it can to improve air quality.

Thick layers of leaves and heavy rains in October were creating problems in the city by washing the leaves and debris along gutters and clogging catch basins in some areas.

Burning of leaves is illegal in Granite City and the leaf removal problem in the community continues to plague city officials.

The current controversy involves jurisdiction for removing leaves from a Granite City drop-off point by Sewage Treatment Plant and Sanitation Department workers.

Bellicoff reminded Madison residents to burn the leaves in their own yards and not on the street pavement or sidewalks.

People should burn the leaves safely, when there is no wind and during daylight hours only. (See BURNING, Page 10A)

Foundry's future remains uncertain

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

If no news is good news, the news for the 500 or so steelworkers laid off when American Steel Foundries shut down its Granite City Works in July isn't bad.

But continuing uncertainty is causing worry. When Bill Donovan, the Granite City Works manager, announced in July that the plant was "temporarily suspending operations" due to "a sudden downturn in railroad freight-car building," he declined to speculate on the length of the shutdown.

The Granite City Works makes the bolsters and sideframes for the truck, or wheel assembly, of railroad freight-cars.

At the time of the shutdown, many steelworkers said they had been told the shutdown would last about six months and that they expected to hear something by January.

This month, the steelworkers began reporting rumors that the plant will not reopen in January and that the earliest it will reopen, if at all, will be in June.

Buddy Davis, director of District 34 of the United Steelworkers of America, said he wasn't surprised there were rumors, since the last timetable he had been told called for reopening some time after January.

"We're getting close to that date," he noted.

"The whole economy is terrible and we in the steel industry are getting used to getting bad news," he said.

In the process of tracking down the rumor on Wednesday, Davis said he spoke to "the top guys" at American Steel in Chicago and was assured the

TIF rezonings halted

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

There will be no zoning changes in the Pontoon Beach Tax Increment Financing district — at least in the near future.

The Village Board voted 5-1 Tuesday night to place a moratorium on rezoning any property in the TIF district until village officials consult with parties involved in pending litigation against the village, resulting in part from previously alleged land-use changes in the district.

The decision to place a hold on zoning changes came during a discussion on a petition by BTL Enterprises.

Stan Lucas is BTL president. BTL asked to rezone lot 33 in the Chouteau Trace III subdivision from general business (B-2) to single-family residential (SR-1).

Trustee Bob Douglas called the board's attention to the fact that the property is in the TIF district, and that the village is "currently being sued by (School District 9) because of changes in the redevelopment plan."

"We are getting right back into the same boat, giving the school district more fuel against us. How is this going to affect our case?" Douglas asked.

Village Attorney Keith Jensen suggested the moratorium be adopted until litigants against the village could be consulted on the matter.

The Granite City school district filed suit in Madison County Circuit Court in December 1990 against the village, BTL, attorney John Gibbons, Magna Trust Co. and unknown other bondholders in regard to the TIF district.

Driver awareness urged

"Make a pledge; call a cab; take a stand; friends don't let friends drive drunk."

These are the messages for this year's National Drunk and Drugged Driver Awareness Week, Dec. 7-13.

Messages you have heard before?

"Yes," said Illinois State Police Director Terrance W. Gainer.

"But sobering ones that need to be thought about again by everyone who will be driving a motor vehicle this holiday season."

It is necessary to have a national awareness week to call this to people's attention.

"You bet it is," said Gainer. "And this is the perfect time of the year to focus attention on the problem. Now is a good time to think about giving someone the gift of life. You can do that. Don't drink and drive."

Although the Illinois State Police won't be calling you a cab if you're found to be driving under the influence, they have always considered themselves to be a ally and friend of the public. "The fact that friends don't let friends drive drunk, and that many people choose to be a designate driver, is helping to save lives," said Gainer.

"We in the law enforcement community will continue to support and deliver those messages."

Special DUI enforcement patrols and roadside safety checks are part of state police plans for this holiday season.

Granite City school tax rate expected to drop by 3 cents

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Related story, Page 10A

If the Granite City school system gets its full proposed 1992-93 tax levy, the tax rate for property owners will drop by about 3 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

But if the district gets the expected percentage of its proposed tax levy, the tax rate will drop by 1 1/2 cents.

In either case, a proposed 3-cent increase in the tax rate for buildings is subject to a backdoor referendum.

"It's confusing, but it can be understood," said Norm Owca, director of finance for the district.

The school administration is asking that the board levy $12,725,255.03 in property taxes, about $516,000 more than its last tax levy.

The new levy, based on a possible 5 percent increase in the total assessed valuation of property in the district, includes a 3-cent increase in the tax rate for buildings, a 5-cent decrease in the tax rate for bonds and interest, and a projected overall drop in the tax rate from $4.1310 to $4.1214, or about 3 cents.

But, Owca said, no one really believes the total assessed valuation is likely to grow by 5 percent. Based on his personal study of the last five years, Owca said the actual percentage of increase in assessed valuation will be about 3 1/2 percent.

In that case, the actual tax levy extension will be about $155,500 less than the amount levied, Owca said, because the tax rates for education, transportation, fire prevention safety and special education are frozen at their maximum rates.

The tax rate for buildings, increased by 3 cents, would also remain the same, but the other tax rates, including the rate for bonds and interest, would all rise to reflect the lesser amount of assessed valuation.

"After all that adding and subtracting," (See TAX, Page 10A)

Madison blasts Cencom hike

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

The Madison City Council went on record Tuesday night as officially objecting to Cencom Cable Television's rate hike scheduled for Jan. 1, 1992.

The action was taken after Russell H. Givens, Cencom regional operations manager, notified the council by letter that the basic monthly rate for cable service will increase by 10 percent.

Givens cited the increase as "a matter of economic necessity."

The current monthly rate for basic service is $20.45 and the new rate will be $22.40, according to a Cencom customer service representative.

"I think it's time we went on record objecting to the constant raise in rates by Cencom to the citizens of our community," Mayor John Bellicoff said.

"Weren't we looking into one (cable television service) of our own?" asked 3rd Ward Alderman Michael Vrabec.

Bellicoff said there were discussions about setting up a cable TV network for communities in the immediate area. "Granite City didn't include us in their last proposal," the mayor added.

Givens could not be reached for comment at Cencom's St. Louis office and a spokesman there referred a reporter to customer service at Cencom of Illinois' office in Maryville.

The last raise in rates for basic service was in January 1991.

No increase is proposed at the present time for the premium movie channels or the Disney Channel.

The current cost to cable viewers with basic service plus Home Box Office is $32.20, plus tax. The new rates will cost viewers $34.15.

Viewers subscribing to The Movie Channel or Showtime when added to the basic rate would pay the same monthly fee.

Disney Channel viewers pay $8.75 a month, plus the $20.45 basic rate, for a total cost of basic rate, for a total cost of

Village passes on general tax levy

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Pontoon Beach will not levy any property taxes for its corporate general fund for fiscal year 1991-92.

The village will levy $55,400 for Social Security and Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund purposes, an increase of approximately 7 percent over last year's levy, Trustee Bob Douglas said.

The Village Board unanimously passed a property tax levy ordinance at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The ordinance initially called for an additional $39,160 to be levied for the general fund, but that amount was deleted after review by the board's Finance Committee.

Douglas, a member of the Finance Committee, said an unexpected surplus of available funds, combined with expenses that were less than anticipated and revenues greater than in previous years, allowed elimination of the proposed general-fund levy.

"I just can't see taxing the people for something we are not going to use," Douglas said.

According to the ordinance, the village had estimated an unappropriated surplus of $101,000 would be on hand May 1, 1991. But the actual amount was closer to $110,000, Douglas said.

Revenue was expected to be $658,600 from May 1, 1991 to April 30, 1992. But Douglas said revenue has been greater than estimated. Sales tax revenue, for example, was estimated to be $300,000 for the year, but $205,050 had already been collected in the first six months, Douglas said.

The total estimated funds available for general fund purposes were $1,110,000. (See LEVY, Page 10A)

Four named in warrants

Four persons were named in warrants issued by Madison County State's Attorney William Hainke, related to area cases, during the week of Dec. 2-6.

Robert G. Theis, 33, of the 2100 block of Lee Avenue, was charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance. Edwardsville police allege that Theis possessed less than 15 grams of cocaine in a Dec. 5 incident. Theis was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $15,000 bond.

A Venice man and two Oakland, Calif., men were each charged with unlawful use of a weapon by a felon.

Larry L. Cox, 37, of the 1000 block of Market Street was previously convicted of unlawful use of a weapon in Madison County on May 6. Venice police allege that Cox possessed a .22-caliber Colt revolver in a Nov. 28 incident.

Franklin L. Wooten, 20, and Alexander Joel Hutchinson, 22, both of Oakland, were charged with unlawful use of a weapon by a felon on Nov. 27. Wooten was also charged with escape after getting away from Venice officers.

Police allege that Wooten possessed a .45-caliber pistol and Hutchinson possessed a 9mm pistol. Wooten and Hutchinson were previously convicted on drug possession charges.

Cox and Hutchinson were being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond each. Bond for Wooten was set at $75,000.

Indicted in killings

A Madison County grand jury returned murder indictments Nov. 27 against two men in unrelated homicides that occurred earlier last month in the county.

Jeffrey A. Yates of East St. Louis, and Reggie Gipson of Alton, both 18, had already been charged in the crimes.

Yates was indicted on two counts of first-degree murder and is facing charges of burglary and home invasion in the shooting death of Elizabeth M. Kirts, 35, of Edwardsville.

According to the charges, Yates allegedly broke into Kirts' apartment in the first block of Devon Court on Nov. 8 to commit a burglary, knowing she was there. She was shot once in the chest.

The apartment was ransacked and some antique jewelry was missing from the bedroom.

In the second case, Gipson was indicted for allegedly murdering Byron Bell, 29, of Alton.

Gipson allegedly shot Bell Nov. 14 outside Charlie's Lounge, 1001 Highland Ave.

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record/Journals.

Although a union shop steward at the Granite City Street Department said it "is clearly a violation of the (city's) contract with the street department unions," workers from the Sewage Treatment Plant have begun hauling away the leaves collected in the city's leaf collection program.

At a special meeting Monday, the Granite City Council voted to have the treatment plant workers do the hauling after Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison balked at the idea of having his workers do the hauling. The city had originally planned to have the treatment plant workers do the hauling, but asked Harrison to have his workers do it after the street workers had threatened to file a grievance.

Chuck Lewis, a Teamsters shop steward, said the hauling remains the job of the streetworkers and would not rule out a grievance still being filed.

A former employee of the Illinois Department of Public Aid in Granite City was indicted by a grand jury last week on four counts of bribery. Frank Darron Dailey, 45, of Troy, was charged with official misconduct and theft of more than $300 nearly five months ago for allegedly accepting money to secure state benefits for an elderly resident. After Dailey's original arrest, police reported several more complaints were filed by people alleging to have given Dailey money. Those complaints led to the most recent charges.

Unemployment in Granite City reached a five-year high in October, according to the Illinois Department of Employment Security. The preliminary rate of 15.4 percent was the highest since the rate hit 15.8 percent in February 1986. The Granite City rate, which has flirted with double digits all year, has been above 10 percent since June and was 13.3 percent in September. The rate for October 1990 was 8.9 percent.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello filed petition for re-election Monday with the Illinois State Board of Elections in Springfield. Costello, D-Belleville, will be a candidate in the newly-created 12th Congressional District, which includes the Mississippi River corridor from Alton to Cairo. The district includes about 70 percent of Costello's former 21st District.

The Madison School Board authorized a three-cent increase in its tax rate for the Operation, Building and Maintenance Fund at its meeting last week. The increase is subject to a backdoor referendum, according to Superintendent Dan Kostencki. Last year, Madison's overall tax rate of $4.2612 was the second highest in Madison County.

Chicago Martin Luther King High School's basketball team, ranked number one in the state and number six in the nation, handily defeated Granite City 91-46 in "The Game" of the Granite City Superfans Shootout on Saturday.

Warrant cites check

Sheila Marie Wood, 28, of the 100 block of Briarwood Drive went to the Granite City police station Dec. 6 and was served a warrant issued by Jackson County, Mo., charging fraud (writing a check with insufficient funds). The warrant carried a $5,000 cash bond.

Burglar breaks window

A burglar tried to get inside The Cutting Connection at 938 Niedringhaus Ave. by breaking a window in a rear door and unlocking the door, it was reported at 5:08 a.m. Dec. 7.

Police were alerted and searched the building but found no one inside.

Tammie Parrish, an employee, said nothing appeared to be missing, but oil was noted on chairs, walls, a desk and the floor.

Burglar gets microwave

A burglar entered the home of Mark T. Cain in the 1900 block of Johnson Road and stole several items of electronic equipment, the owner reported at 2:25 a.m. Dec. 7.

Entry was gained by breaking a window. Among the missing items were a Kenwood stereo receiver valued at $400, a GE cordless telephone worth $120, a Kenwood cassette deck valued at $300, a microwave oven worth $185, a color television valued at $150 and a Panasonic telephone answering machine valued at $225.

Beating of boys alleged Jeffrey E. Stufflebean, 17, of the 2200 block of Grand Avenue was served a felony warrant Friday charging him with aggravated battery.

Stufflebean was served the warrant at the Madison County Jail.

He is alleged to have been involved in a Sept. 22 incident in which two 13-year-old boys, one from Granite City and one from Belleville, told police they were attacked, taken to a house in the 2400 block of Lincoln Avenue, held against their will, and beaten.

The boys told police they were walking in the 2400 block of Lincoln at about 11:30 p.m. Sept. 22 when five or six persons took them to a house and held them against their will until about 1:15 a.m.

The Granite City boy told police he was able to break free and flee, but that the Belleville boy was held by several persons while Stufflebean and another beat him about the face.

The reporting officer noted that the Belleville boy suffered swelling and multiple bruises about the head and face and appeared to have a broken nose.

Former Republican chairman finalist for federal judgeship

J. Thomas Long, Alton riverboat gambling executive and former Madison County Republican chairman, is the finalist for a new federal judgeship.

Long was chosen Monday by the U.S. Justice Department from four candidates recommended by U.S. Rep. Robert Michel, R-Peoria, for the new Southern District of Illinois seat on the bench, Michel aide Ray LaHood said.

An FBI background investigation and screening by an American Bar Association committee are the next steps and are expected to take "four to six months," LaHood said Monday.

If those reviews are positive, the Justice Department would recommend to President Bush that he nominate Long for the $125,000-a-year lifetime appointment. The nomination would require Senate approval.

LaHood said Michel had indicated no preference among the four candidates he had selected from an original group of 13 applicants. The other three were U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess of Belleville, state Circuit Judge Philip Gilbert of Carbondale and former Williamson County State's Attorney Randy Patchett of Marion.

Long said Monday he had been advised not to comment on the judicial appointment. Deputy U.S. Attorney General John M. Kennedy said it was department policy "not to comment on the judicial selection process" and declined to answer questions on why Long was selected.

The selection came just days after Bush appointed former Secretary of Transportation Samuel Skinner as his new chief of staff. Skinner and Long have been friends since they worked on Bush's 1988 Illinois campaign. Another friend of Skinner's, state Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, said Skinner had backed Long's candidacy for judge.

On Friday, after Skinner's elevation to White House chief of staff, McPike said, "I would think that this should do it" (for Long to get the nod).

Last May Long was almost eliminated from consideration. At that point, Michel planned to interview only the five candidates who had received the highest "exceptionally well-qualified" rating from an Illinois State Bar Association screening committee. That group did not include Long, Michel later decided to interview all applicants.

Long was Madison County Republican chairman from 1986 until resigning about a year ago, citing other responsibilities. He has been most visible recently as the chief financial officer of Alton Riverboat Gambling Partnership Inc., which owns the Alton Belle casino.

If Long becomes a federal judge, he may have to divest himself of his riverboat gambling interests. R. Townsend Robinson, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Courts office in Washington, D.C., said federal judges are not allowed to own businesses unless they are family-owned. U.S. District judges are also not permitted to serve as officers or managers of firms.

Another of the original partners in the Alton casino venture, East Alton attorney David Herndon, is a judge. Herndon was appointed a state associate circuit judge earlier this year and has placed his share of the gambling partnership in a trust out of his control.

A resident of Fosterburg, Long is a partner in the law firm of Farrell and Long, which has offices in Godfrey and Edwardsville. A native of Manteno, near Kankakee, Long first came to the area in 1978, after getting his law degree from Southern Methodist University in 1976 then working for a St. Louis accounting firm. Long is also a certified public accountant.

If Long is nominated and confirmed, he would join three other federal judges in the Southern District, which includes Madison and Calhoun counties and about the southern one-third of the state.

Chief Judge James Foreman said Monday the plan was for the new judge to join U.S. District Judges William Beatty and William Stiehl in hearing cases at the federal courthouse in East St. Louis. Foreman usually holds court in Benton.

Santa to make telephone calls

The Granite City Park District has made arrangements for children to talk directly to Santa Claus at the North Pole.

From 4 to 7 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 19, Santa will call children on the phone to listen to their wishes and get their Christmas list.

He promised he will also find out if they are being good.

To receive a call from Santa an adult must stop in or call the Wilson Park office to complete a form. This must be done during office hours, which are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Friday and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The phone number to call is 877-3089.

There is no charge for this program. However, all children must live in the Granite City Park District.

In order for a child to get a call, a reservation must be made by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 18.

A whole lot of nothing

Street Superintendent Jug Harrison doesn't like the city's leaf program. It doesn't matter that it is already in place. It doesn't matter that the volume of leaves collected indicates it is a very popular program. Because Jug Harrison personally thinks leaf collection is a waste of the taxpayers' money, he won't let his department have any part of it.

Jug Harrison thinks the citizens of Granite City should burn their leaves. It doesn't matter that leaf burning is against city ordinance. It doesn't matter that the majority of the aldermen recently voted against allowing leaf burning and, even if they wanted to change their minds, it can't be voted on again until next year. Because he personally believes leaves should be burned, he won't let his department be a party to hauling them away.

Jug Harrison has that right. He is an elected official and no one can make him do anything.

As a direct result of his refusal to be a part of the city's program, nothing happened. Nothing.

Oh, Jug Harrison got his name in the newspaper. Jug Harrison was on the television news. He got a special city council meeting called just for him and was then able to snub the mayor and aldermen by not showing up.

But leaf burning is still banned. Leaves are still being collected by the city. The leaves will be hauled away and the chances are good that, through the union grievance process, the street department will eventually end up doing the hauling.

As a sports fan and former ball player, Jug Harrison knew from the very beginning that this would be the end result. When a crybaby takes his ball and runs home, the game doesn't end forever. It just stops until another ball is found.

And, Jug Harrison might be wise to remember, crybabies are rarely asked to play again.

Fight drug traffic everywhere

Drug dealers are able to operate in the open, as they do, because people let them.

The active opponents of drug dealers are far outnumbered by people who figure it's not their problem, who say it's not happening in their neighborhood, who say the drug dealer hasn't done anything wrong to them personally or who just don't want to get involved.

The fact drug dealers have a free hand anywhere should make people angry everywhere. So angry they demand that government at all levels take all necessary steps to stop it.

Our society depends upon its citizens being willing to identify and punish criminals. If citizens are unwilling to do either, our society is doomed.

Moment in time, lifelong lesson

(Carol Clarkin's column appears regularly in the Edwardsville Journal.)

How many of us can remember exactly where we were and what we were doing on a specific date 50 years ago?

If you're of my generation — certainly if you're older, and even if you're a decade younger — your memory is probably pretty clear on the details of half a century ago (Pearl Harbor Day, Dec. 7, 1941).

True but true, there really are some unforgettable days in most lives, days which, even at the time, we know immediately are historic. Days when even the smallest detail remains fresh in memory the rest of our lives.

For whatever reason, I was home from school on some kind of break and my parents were in Indiana, visiting one of my aunts.

My brother and I were "bitching" for a couple of days; he had an exam coming up the following week and was trying to cram for it while putting in a few hours of work at his part-time job.

My friend Mary and I had spent the better part of the day goofing around at her house, catching up on local gossip, but hadn't bothered to turn the radio on.

When, late in the afternoon, we decided to check out whether any of the crowd was at home or meet us for hamburgers. My brother, who HAD been listening to the radio, was the first to tell us of the Japanese attack. And to register amazement when we asked, almost in a whisper, "Where's Pearl Harbor?"

He filled us in, as best he could, on what few details had been broadcast, and the three of us went on to Ham's, a popular local gathering place for the young, and I learned that a boy we'd all of us suddenly aware that the day had changed our lives forever.

I think, in a peripheral way, we weren't surprised to find ourselves at war. Britain and France had been at war with Germany for over two years.

But I don't think most of us expected a surprise attack from the direction of the Pacific and the effect was a little like getting rabbit-punched by a guy you didn't even know was standing behind you.

It was to be days, weeks even, before most of us knew the devastation of that attack.

The figures still are appalling — 2,403 dead and 1,178 wounded (including 68 and 33 civilians, respectively); two battleships, the Arizona and the Oklahoma, lost, together with two destroyers and the target ship, the Utah, and a mine layer and three battleships sunk or beached but salvageable and nine other ships badly damaged.

Out of the Japanese attacking force of 31 ships and 353 raiding planes, only 29 planes, one large submarine, and five midget 2-man subs were lost.

We weren't to learn till later, either, that within hours of the Pearl Harbor attack, Japanese forces attacked Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines, destroying 18 B-17s, 53 P-40s, and about 30 other aircraft — half of our air force based in the Far East.

It was weeks before my friends and I learned that a boy we'd gone to school with was based at Schofield Barracks; it was months before we found out he'd survived.

The three years and eight months that followed represent an important chunk carved out of the lives of most of my generation because it was, primarily, our generation's war.

Most of the fellows I knew were in one uniform or another. Before it was over, seven of my high school classmates and four of my college friends were dead and two friends had been POWs, one of whom lost a leg.

We married and some of us had children during those years. My son Mike was born a little more than a month before Ed, based in the CBI, knew he'd been born.

At the time of his birth, I still didn't know whether my brother, a gunner on a B-29 who'd been shot down off the Japanese coast, was dead or alive.

I was no exception in those years; my plight was par for the course.

Those of us at home, the women, learned to cook meatless meals, drive bald tires, had good leather shoes resoled, over and over again, learned to fix a car, and I learned that a boy we'd gone to school with was based at Schofield Barracks; it was months before we found out he'd survived.

Letters

Children's safety well worth cost

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing in regard to the Nov. 14 letter, "Opposing hiring crossing guards."

I would like to say a thing or two to this man, and what better way than through the Granite City Press-Record?

To the letter writer, you need to get your facts straight; that is, if you had any facts to begin with. I suggest you read the letter underneath yours. Drivers ignoring school crosswalks.

It's just that way; some people just don't care. They think, "So what if the light's red? I see no cop." So they go for it, not thinking twice about the fact that a child may have changed that light.

Second, I cannot believe I read you are a father of three school children and you still feel there is no need for crossing guards.

I will assume your children go to school that has a fairly safe crosswalk, because I don't want to think it could be any other reason.

Third, yes, some schools do have children working the crosswalks. I beg to differ about them being properly trained; things happened too fast for them to be trained.

The grown-up crossing guards were taught by police officers. What's a sixth grader have to do with anything? To me, a sixth grader is still a small child. My daughter is a sixth grader and she is still my baby. I would never allow her to do that job.

That, I know for a fact. Fourth, oh yes, there are paid school crossing guards on the side streets, because I was one of them.

Finally, as a taxpayer, we all pay taxes. At least, anyone who works is a taxpayer. And what little taxes you pay for the crossing guards won't break you. It won't break any of us.

What they do take out for for the safety of our children. At least, some of us feel that way.

Surely, letter writer, you could find something other than to blame your unfair taxes on, not the safety of children.

Urges prayerful reconsideration

TO THE EDITOR:

Dear brothers and sisters, I would like to take this opportunity, during this holy and penitential season of Advent to reach as many inactive Catholics as I can. I want to personally invite you to return to the active practice of your Catholic faith.

I realize that your reasons for leaving the active practice of your faith are as varied and numerous as there are inactive Catholics.

For some, it's because you're angry with God (e.g., suffering the death of a loved one, a business failure, or seeing your dreams and hopes die, etc.).

For others, it is because you feel bitter over the way you were mistreated by a priest, sister or church official (e.g., marriage to a non-Catholic, by being divorced, or numerous remarriages, etc.).

And for others, you feel that the changes of Vatican Council II (e.g., Communion in the hand, Lay ministers, Eucharistic ministers, etc.) have destroyed the integrity and heritage of the Catholic Church, the church you grew up with and loved deeply.

No matter what your personal reason(s) is for leaving the active practice of your Catholic faith, there is one common denominator underlying all the above-mentioned valid reasons: An intense and deeply rooted pain. A pain so intense that it not healed it will lead to annihilation.

I understand your reasons for leaving the active practice of your Catholic faith. But, I ask that you please understand that we are an imperfect church, living in an imperfect world; as such, we are prone to make mistakes.

Please take a few minutes now and seriously, prayerfully consider returning to the active practice of your Catholic faith. That is, please seek to heal that intense pain of being separated from your family, the church.

If I can be of any help or assistance or if you have any questions or concerns, please give me a call at 638-631-2916 and ask for "Father Bud" DeGrand. Or write: St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, 2301 Porton Road, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Technology with a caring attitude

TO THE EDITOR:

I can't begin to say how fortunate Granite City and the surrounding area are to have St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The hospital has all the modern-day technology, but they haven't lost that personalized, caring attitude.

I was recently hospitalized for several weeks due to tests and surgery. It really became my home away from home because of the overwhelming care I was given.

My doctors (Harmon, Popovich, Petrovich, Gould and others) were superb and worked as a team in my diagnosis and treatment. The staff of nurses, aides and so many others made me feel secure and comfortable.

These people were comforting and supportive and seemed to go out of their way. I found this same pleasant, caring and reassuring feeling on the 3rd floor and throughout the hospital from radiology, radium therapy, orderlies, volunteers, housekeeping, etc.

Everyone made my stay better and couldn't have been more personal, humane and sympathetic.

We should be proud of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. As a community, we should boast of its fine heritage in the past, as well as being proud of its commitment to medical and personal excellence. My thanks to everyone again.

Cat licensing can solve problems

TO THE EDITOR:

The proposal to license cats is a most intelligent and reasonable way to address several animal-related dilemmas facing Madison County.

In the proposed plan, cats would be required to receive higher licensing fees than those licensed differentially.

This means people with fertile animals would pay a slightly higher licensing fee than those with spayed or neutered animals.

This would encourage people to have their animals neutered, which would ease our animal overpopulation problem. So far, killing has been the only means

Kind, able care

TO THE EDITOR:

I am sending a letter to the editor to publicly acknowledge the Home Health Care Department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the ongoing good job done by these employees.

My mother was critically ill for several months before she passed away and Home Health Care started coming to the house and taking care of her around the first of June, 1991.

They continued their visits up to the date of her passing. The employees were all kind, caring and very considerate of my mother and the entire family.

Also, I wish to express appreciation to DORS (Department of Rehabilitation Services) for furnishing Jackie to take care of my mother during her extended illness.

I tried to thank each and every person who was kind and caring toward my mother, Dorothy Weaver, during her illness. If I have missed anyone, I apologize and send them my thanks at this time.

The illness of a loved one brings a lot of stress to the family and this is relieved to some extent by caring people like those who work for Home Health Care and DORS.

These people are truly dedicated folks who care about their patients and I think they are to be commended.

Treat veterans in VA hospitals

TO THE EDITOR:

I am a registered voter, a member of Kaskaskia Memorial Ladies Auxiliary to VFW 5691, Collinsville, and honored to be the state president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Department of Illinois.

I am speaking for 42,409 auxiliary members in Illinois.

This letter is meant to express concern and anger in regard to the "Rural Health Care" program that Department of Veterans Affairs Secretary Edward Derwinski is attempting to institute.

This program would allow the treatment of non-veterans in our VA hospitals.

At a time when our veterans are being turned away due to the lack of funds and beds, how can we even think about servicing others?

The VA Health Care System was established to take care of the veterans who served their country in time of need. It's time for this country to listen to the veterans and answer their needs.

I am a representative of and for veterans and their ladies auxiliary. I ask that everyone vote "no" on this most important issue.

I am asking you to telephone or write your senators, congressmen and Sen. Derwinski and state that you are adamantly opposed to this "Rural Health Care" program that would allow the treatment of non-veterans in our VA hospitals.

The church will be serving hand-breaded and dipped Island Cod.

Stuck for Christmas ideas? Try some of these

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Christmas shopping can be fun. It can be a scavenger hunt. It can even be a sport. But for many it can be an unmitigated nightmare.

As you stumble through the crowded mall, millions of horrifying questions race through your mind: Does Aunt Lillian wear a large or an extra-large? Is cousin Timmy too old for Tonka Trucks? Didn't we buy Uncle Elroy drill bits last year? Should we buy your sister-in-law maternity clothes again? Chia Pet?

Let's face it, Santa himself couldn't find a decent gift for some people. Still you need to buy something for that black sheep of the family and you would rather not flush your hard-earned credit rating right down the toilet.

Never fear! There are exciting, unusual, downright strange and, heaven forbid, useful gifts out there for that hard-to-shop-for or hard-to-please person on your list.

Think entertainment: The harmonica is a fun little instrument that almost anyone can learn to play.

Swing City Music in Collinsville carries harmonicas ranging in price from $13 for a common harmonica to $82.50 for the extravagant Echo Hohner Harmonica. And better yet, they carry a 45-minute "Learn to play the harmonica" video tape for only $19.95. Tapes come with a beginner harmonica for those who don't want to fork over the $82.50 right away.

"It is instant gratification," said Dave Potts, manager of Swing City Music. "You can pick it up and immediately start playing it."

"It is small so you can take it anywhere with you and it is inexpensive."

If musical instruments aren't appropriate try singing and dancing. The Collinsville Performing Arts Studio offers lessons in ballet, tap, jazz, point gymnastics and singing to people of all ages, said owner, director and teacher Doris Diehl.

"A chance to dance is a lasting gift," Diehl said. "It is on-going, it doesn't break easily and it never goes out of style."

Classes last for one hour. One class per week is $23 per month. Two classes per week is $40 per month and for serious students three or more classes a week is $50 per month.

Classes are divided into two five-month semesters with students giving a performance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville at the end of their lessons.

For more information call the Collinsville Performing Arts Studio at (618) 344-0697.

If the person you are buying for has absolutely no talent, but still appreciates the arts try season tickets to the theater.

For first rate community theater call the Looking Glass Playhouse in Lebanon at 537-4962. Season tickets are $23, which includes five shows.

The future makes a nice gift. Give gift certificates for psychic readings from James Ford the Creative Psychic at St. Clair Square. For only $18 Ford can help anyone induce a 12-15 minute state of meditation that helps them reach the subconscious and clear the path to their future.

Also Ford carries more than 200 different self-help subliminal message tapes on topics ranging from improving study habits to kicking habits. Tapes range in price from $9.98 to $14.98 — all with a money back guarantee.

Call Ford at (314) 949-2901 for an appointment.

For something zany, yet practical, the Aartark Zombee art gallery in Edwardsville carries unique tape dispensers and staplers. A matching set of the hand-painted neon abstract office supplies runs about $25.

"They are very practical yet unusual," said gallery owner Lauren Friederich. "A lot of people who work in offices work with a lot of sameness and dull colors, these will really brighten up an office."

If you black sheep like other animals, Koko, a life-size stuffed gorilla is $450 at F.A.O. Schwartz at the St. Louis Galleria.

A smaller 3-foot-high gorilla, dalmatian, elephant, brown bear, lion or duck will run you about $99.

If you don't want to spring for a stuffed animal just wrap up a couple of tickets to the St. Clair County Historical Society Museum's Teddy Bear exhibit. "The Secret Lives of Teddy Bears" will feature 600 to 800 Teddy Bears, a "southern" shop and travel "bearsuit."

The exhibit, which runs through Jan. 4, is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Fridays. Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for children. For ticket information call (618) 234-0600.

Speaking of stuffed animals, Paul Jarvis Taxidermy in Collinsville can mount your favorite hunting trophy. However, he is not likely to finish it before Christmas this year. It is all booked up. He has mounted deer, fox, buffalo, geese, rabbit, fish, frogs and even black bears.

Call Paul Jarvis Taxidermy at (618) 667-6667. He can mount almost anything, but please no house pets or small birds.

If you like your animals to be alive and kicking but hate cats and dogs, try a Vietnamese Pot Bellied Pig. Pass Pets sells the little porkers for $400.

Full grown the pigs will stand about 12-15 inches high and weigh about 40 pounds. They are as smart if not smarter than dogs and can be easily house broken, said Larry Kehelebrink, a sales clerk at Pass Pets at Northwest Plaza.

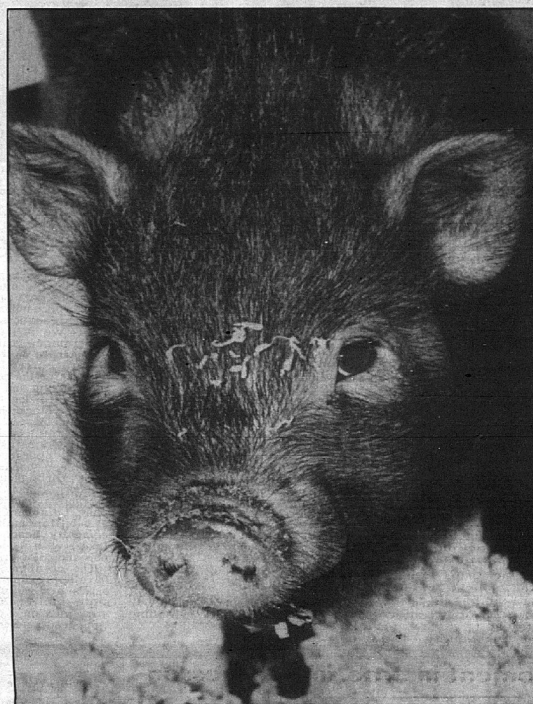

If you prefer animals living and breathing in their own natural habitat send a donation to GREENPEACE in your pet's name.

A donation of $20, $25, $40, $50 or more entitles your buddy to a subscription to the GREENPEACE publication as well as helping to secure the safety of dolphins, whales and other forms of wildlife. Write to GREENPEACE at P.O. Box 3720, Washington, D.C. 20007.

If you want a gift that will never become extinct, how about a tattoo? Mid-West Ink tattoo parlors in Belleville is offering $25 Christmas Gift certificates.

Tattoos start at $20 and can cost as much as a few hundred dollars, depending on size and complexity, said Mid-West Ink owner Guy Feary.

"It is a gift that lasts a lifetime," Feary said. "Every time you see it you think of the person who gave it to you."

A Vietnamese Pot Bellied Pig sells for $400 at Pass Pets. Full grown the pigs will stand about 12-15 inches high and weigh about 40 pounds. They are considered at least as smart as dogs.

"May glad tidings of the holiday season bring you happiness and cheer. May your hopes and dreams of tomorrow be yours this coming year. May the word of love be spoken to you with the deepest of earnestness. And the lovely dove of peace find your home its dwelling nest."

— Janet Groh

Janet Groh of Illinois writes from the home with her message of hope and love for the holiday season.

Groh's son, Jimmy, was successfully treated for leukemia at Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital. He has been off all medication for about three years.

Groh's poem is inscribed on the inside of the 1991 Christmas Society Christmas card. This year's project was a joint effort between Groh and Rachel Rutherford, 9, who currently is undergoing therapy for brain cancer at Cardinal Glennon. Rachel's drawing of a carousel with a little girl riding a reindeer surrounded by four candy canes decorates the outside of the card.

The Candlelighters are among several organizations that sell Christmas cards as a fund-raising project. It offers the public an opportunity to send a beautiful card to loved ones and friends and to make a contribution to a group or groups of their choice.

Information on some of the organizations follows.

St. Clair County Court Appointed Special Advocates. The organization represents abused or neglected children in court. Proceeds go to help offset operating expenses for the volunteer organization. CASA is selling 12 different styles of Christmas cards at $12 per box, with 20 cards in each box. The cards feature Christmas art created by children for the CASA branch in Portland, Ore. Allow two weeks for delivery. To place an order call Mary Ann Unruh at (618) 538-7611 or (618) 538-5744.

American Cancer Society: Proceeds from the sale go toward the fight against cancer. Twelve different styles, 25 cards per box, are available. Price: $14 to $22. Orders shipped via United Parcel Service. Allow three weeks for delivery. Information: (314) 967-9730.

American Heart Association: Contributions support the association's fight against cardiovascular diseases and stroke. Souldard Farmers' Market, an original watercolor painting created by Hanselmann, is featured this year in the association's Landmark Holiday Card series. Cards available in boxes of 25. Contributions start at $10, averaged 60 cents per card. Information: St. Louis, (314) 367-3383. St. Charles, (314) 946-5060; outside St. Louis, 800-326-3383.

Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital: Proceeds help support activities for families of children with cancer at Cardinal Glennon provided by the Candlelighters Society, a volunteer support group. Magna Group to complete merger Magna Group Inc. is scheduled to complete its acquisition of Landmark Bancshares Corp. on Dec. 20.

The Federal Reserve System board of governors gave its approval Nov. 19 after Magna and Landmark shareholders approved the transaction Oct. 28. Landmark banks' office signs will be changed to Magna after the close of business on Dec. 20, bank officials said.

The merger creates a bank with more than $4 billion in assets and 98 retail banking locations. In remarks made following stockholders' approval, William S. Badgley, chairman and president of Magna, said the timing of the merger will delay many effects of the action until next year.

"The two companies are expected to be together for only a short time this year," he said. "As a result, many of the benefits of the merger will not be apparent until 1992 and beyond. However, over the next several years, the acquisition of Landmark will create opportunities for us to generate a return to stockholders that exceeds what either company would expect to achieve on a stand-alone basis.

"We believe the combined company will be successful as we pursue a business strategy which will:

"(1) take advantage of our strengthened competitive position in the metropolitan St. Louis area;

"(2) continue our efforts to improve asset quality and maintain the net interest margin for the combined company at Magna's historic levels;

"(3) reduce expenses by at least $16 million by the end of the third year.

"The expense reduction program is key to reaching our target performance levels and in the past months both Magna and Landmark have laid the groundwork for the steps we intend to take.

"Among other actions, we will be taking advantage of staffing efficiencies, consolidating our operations centers, eliminating duplicate data processing operations, and combining affiliates in selected locations.

"As we strive to reach our performance goals, we expect to concentrate on the market areas we are currently serving. The outlook for the combined company is strong and we are committed to utilizing that strength to increase stockholder value.

"Magna Group, Inc. is a $2.3 billion multi-bank holding company headquartered in Belleville. Magna operates through five chartered banks with 49 locations throughout central and southern Illinois, a trust company, and a data processing company. Landmark Bancshares is a $1.9 billion multi-bank holding company headquartered in St. Louis, with 49 locations in Illinois and Missouri.

The combined company will have approximately $3 billion in assets and 60 offices in the bi-state metropolitan St. Louis area, making it the third largest bank group serving that market.

Workers' stress under study

Postal officials seek to prevent more violence

The letter of the law isn't expected to change anytime soon for postal employees.

Mass screenings of workers and major changes to postal operations appeared imminent last month after a former letter carrier opened fire in the Royal Oaks, Mich., post office, killing four people and himself.

But while a newly established hot line telephone number has reported hundreds of suspicious postal employees to authorities, other changes are months away at best.

The hot line, (800) 654-8896, produced a flood of phone calls immediately following the Royal Oaks shootings, but the number has since dropped to a trickle.

"I would say the first couple of days brought in around 200 calls a day. Every one of those has to be checked on," said Lou Eberhardt, headquarters spokesman for the Washington, D.C., office of the postmaster general.

Most of the calls have produced nothing substantive, although one call alerted postal authorities to a worker who had been ordered by a judge to undergo psychiatric screening in Massachusetts, Eberhardt said.

Diane Williams, communications specialist with the St. Louis Division of the Postal Service, which includes Southern Illinois, said only a few dictates have been handed down from the federal level.

"I know people have been told to take the threat (of violence) seriously; that's happening."

Williams said the Postal Service has also formed a task force to review hiring practices and plans to convene a meeting of union and management associations.

Last month, when Postmaster General Anthony Frank announced a plan to check the background of postal workers, many people felt that meant all 750,000 employees would undergo some kind of screening, Eberhardt said.

"I think (Frank) kind of painted (the plan) with a broad brush and no one asked him the right questions," Eberhardt said.

"We can't take 750,000 people and screen them, obviously. What we're talking about is screening people who in terms of the memory of their fellow employees are a threat... or who had been fired or in the process of being fired. There are some privacy considerations. You can't just investigate someone without a reason," Eberhardt said.

Thomas McIvane's rampage Nov. 14 in Michigan was believed to be provoked by disagreements with postal managers. Since 1985, 28 postal workers have died in five separate shootings, all by workers or ex-workers out for revenge.

The House Civil Service and Post Office Committee plans hearings this spring dealing with the "whole issue" of post office personnel, according to Brian Lott, administrative aide to U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville.

Unions feel that automation and management-caused stress are the roots of the violence.

"The unions have taken the simplistic point of view," Eberhardt countered. There are 37,000 fewer postal workers than in May 1989, "but we have not fired anyone."

Paul Jones of Alton, president of the GEM Area Local of the American Postal Workers Union, said there are a number of reasons for stress.

"There's more to it than just the automation issue. There's (also) too much harassment on the job, which is hard to prove. And people do not know what the future's going to be."

Automation means part-time flexible workers are getting fewer hours and full-time personnel frequently face transfers. Workers can be moved within a 100-mile radius before the Postal Service has to pay moving expenses, Jones said.

Jones said his union is so disenchanted with changes brought on by Postmaster General Frank that it called for him to resign when it held a national convention in August.

Among changes in recent years are reduced window hours and lowered delivery standards, the APWU has said.

The long lines in the post office cause some of the worst stress, said Jones, whose union represents 101 workers in Alton, Edwardsville, East Alton, Jerseyville, Cottage Hills and elsewhere.

'Tis the season to be aware of those holiday fire hazards

'Tis the season to be jolly. It is also a season for homeowners to be especially aware of the fire hazards posed by the winter holidays.

In recent years, more than 600 fires per year have been started by ignition of Christmas trees, causing an average of 14 deaths, 70 injuries and $12.1 million in direct property damage. The holiday decorations, extra cooking and parties also present potential fire problems.

"On these festive occasions, we must take time to identify fire hazards and examine fire safety practices," said State Fire Marshal Thomas L. Armstrong. "People must pay particular attention to fire safety precautions and plan and practice escape drills so they are prepared in case a fire does occur."

The Office of the Illinois State Fire Marshal said Christmas trees pose the biggest holiday fire threat and natural trees are particularly dangerous. OSFM offers a number of suggestions to help make homes safer this holiday season.

A fresh tree should be stored out-of-doors until it is time to decorate it. It should have sapling needles rather than dry, brittle needles that snap. The tree should have the bottom two inches of its trunk cut off and should be placed in water when it is brought into the house to be decorated.

All trees, whether natural, metal or artificial, should be set up away from heat sources, doorways and high traffic areas. Artificial trees should carry a UL safety seal. Lighting for all trees and decorations should be inspected for worn insulation, broken plugs and loose bulbs and sockets, and should carry an approved safety-testing seal. Decorative lights should not be used on metallic trees.

In addition to safety precautions concerning Christmas trees, OSFM offers a number of other suggestions to keep the holidays and their celebrations safe.

- Buy and install a smoke detector. It is the law in Illinois. Test and clean smoke detectors already in place.
- Practice home fire drills.

Plan two exits from every room and designate an outdoor meeting place. Make sure all family members know this escape plan.

- Keep presents away from the Christmas tree lights.
- Do not overload electric outlets. Check power capacity of your house and stay within the wattage limits. Use extension cords sparingly.
- Do not use indoor light sets outside. All outdoor light sets should be weather-proofed.
- If you use candles, place them in a safe place away from any flammable material. Be sure all children know the danger of the candles, chafing dishes, potpourri scent pots, the fireplace and space heaters.
- Make sure all exits are clear during holiday celebrations. Provide large ashtrays and dispose of smoking materials in covered metal waste containers at parties.
- Be sure decorative lights are away from combustible materials.

'Tis the season — Bill Brimm of the 2300 block of Morrison Road takes advantage of the recent mild weather to decorate his home for the holidays.

Free Christmas lights tour offered

The Bi-State Development Agency, in conjunction with Christmas in St. Louis, will operate a free bus service along a downtown St. Louis route designed to show off spectacular light displays.

Buses, departing from Laclede's Landing, will operate every 30 minutes between 6 and 10 p.m. Dec. 14-15 and 21-22.

The 60-minute tour will pass Union Station, Market Street, City Hall, Kiener Plaza, Soudard Market, Anheuser-Busch and the grounds of the Gateway Arch.

Parking will be available in Arch Parking Garage on Washington Boulevard, in other nearby parking garages or in lots on Laclede's Landing.

After starting on Laclede's Landing Boulevard at First Street, the buses will head east and then turn south on Leona K. Sullivan Boulevard, west on Washington, south on Broadway, west on Market, south on 16th Street, east on Clark Street, north on 16th Street, east on Market to Broadway and south on Broadway.

The buses then will go south on Seventh Street and Busch Place to Arsenal Street, east on Arsenal to Broadway, north on Broadway to Seventh, north on Seventh to Fourth Street, north on Fourth to Walnut Street, east on Walnut to Memorial Drive, north on Memorial Drive to Washington, east on Washington to First and then north on First to the starting point.

During the holiday season, Bi-State also is providing free rides on its "Santa" bus, a vehicle decorated with decals and a bow that randomly will show up on regularly scheduled routes through Dec. 25.

For more information, persons may call Bi-State Transit Information weekdays from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. at 231-5515 in Missouri or 271-2345 in Illinois.

Interstate ramp closings begin

The Illinois Department of Transportation has announced that various ramps at the Interstate 270/Illinois 157, Interstate 270/Illinois 159 and Interstate 270/Interstate 55/70 interchanges are being closed for resurfacing.

The closure began Tuesday. Only one ramp at a time will be closed and the closure duration will be for 2 to 4 hours at a time.

Annual Christmas candlelight service set at St. John Lutheran

Mr. and Mrs.
Douglas Gioletto-
Benson

Lisa Janelle Benson and Douglas F. Gioletto were married Oct. 19, 1991, at St. John Evangelical United Church of Christ by the Rev. Donald S. Sabbert.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron S. Benson of Granite City. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gioletto of Collinsville.

The maid of honor was Dawn Meyer of Granite City, a sister. The bridesmaids were Patty Wick, Barb Reeder and Linda Tennant.

The best man was Joseph Gioletto of Collinsville, a brother. The groomsmen were Bob Friedrich, Larry Eartha and Terry Tennant.

The flower girl was Casey Meyer, a niece. The ringbearer was Ryan Gioletto, a nephew. Ushers were Keith Easley of Granite City and Scott Gower of Collinsville.

A reception was held at Elk's Club in Granite City. After a wedding trip to Carribean, the couple is residing in Collinsville. The bride is a 1991 graduate of Granite City High School. She is employed by Mobile Clinical Services of St. Louis as a billing clerk.

The groom is a 1978 graduate of Collinsville High School. He is employed by Credit Systems of St. Louis as a communications technician.

The St. John Lutheran Church choir will present the 30th Annual Christmas Candlelight Concert at 7 p.m. Sunday in the church at St. Clair and Dale avenues.

The concert will be dedicated to the Rev. Samuel Boda, pastor emeritus, who initiated and directed the first 28 annual candlelight concerts.

The concert will begin and end with robed Adult and Youth Choir members marching in a processional down the aisles holding candles in the darkened church and singing traditional carols.

Senior Choir Members are: Elizabeth Ammann, Anita Ames, Denise Hagler, Jackie Harris, Donna Kahn, Helyn Potter, Christie Diak, Diane Geb-hardt, Georgia Lostutter, Barbara Schmitz, Luther Boda, Rudy Diak Sr., Tom Hanson, Charles "Rick" McQueen, Oliver T. Potter, Michael Schmitz, John T. Severine Sr., and John Verschuyl.

If you or someone you love has a drinking problem, you know that the pain is more than just physical. Alcoholism also hurts self-esteem and personal relationships – sometimes even destroys the will to live.

At The Edgewood Program, our counselors understand what you're going through, because many of us are recovering from an alcohol and/or drug dependency, too. So we can help – and we want to help.

At Edgewood, you'll benefit from one of the best alcohol and drug treatment programs in the country. Because we focus on treating the whole person. We'll work closely with you – and your family – to help improve every facet of your life: physical, emotional, social and spiritual – and to help you return to a healthier lifestyle.

Taking a multi-disciplinary approach to treatment, our team of caring professionals will help you feel good about yourself again. For more information call 618/656-6730 or 800-458-6477.

We'll help you begin a new life with your family and friends by helping you overcome your alcohol or drug problem – right down to the last drop.

Church to present musicals

The preschool and children's choirs of Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., will present their Christmas program at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The preschool children will present their program followed by the combined children's choirs performing the musical, "The Real Story of ... the Night Before Christmas."

A fellowship will follow the service. A nursery service will be provided.

On Dec. 22 at 7 p.m., the adult choir of Grace Baptist Church will present the Christmas cantata, "Good News of Great Joy."

Christmas event at Blair

Blair School, College and Mercedia avenues, Madison, will present its annual Christmas Program at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Featured in the program will be musician Theo Peoples from Wentzville, Mo., on keyboards, soprano saxophone and vocals. Kent Charles, a guest artist appearing with Peoples, will perform on the keyboards and also provide vocals.

The public is invited to attend the free program at the school, Bernard Long, Blair principal, said.

Middle School to stage play

Madison Middle School students will present a Christmas play, "A Cause for Mrs. Claus," on at 7 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium at Madison High School.

Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, 13 and under. The public is invited, Betty J. Gabryshak, Middle School principal, advised. Among the evening's highlights will be a drawing for door prizes.

Calvary Baptist plans recital

Calvary Baptist Church, 30th Street and Washington Avenue, will present a recital of Christmas music to be performed by April Glowacki and Dan Vizer at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The program will feature solo works for piano; piano duets; piano and organ duet; and an organ solo.

The public is invited to this free concert.

Bowles on honor roll

Matthew Bowles of Granite City, a junior at Metro-East Lutheran High School in Edwardsville, was among the students named to the honor roll with distinction, it was announced Dec. 2 by Sigmund Bohnet, principal.

St. Ann's Society elects officers

Kathy Dohnal covers the Madison-Venice scene for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 877-1096.

St. Ann's Society of St. Mary's Church met Nov. 19 at Engelbert Hall, Madison.

President Mary Ann Bunk reminded members of the Christmas party to be held at Engelbert Hall.

Fruit baskets will be delivered to members ill at home or in nursing homes.

New officers were elected at the meeting and will take office in January.

Serving will be President Vada Krajovich, Vice President Rose Stern, Secretary Alexis Lux, Treasurer Eleanor Tutka, and Chaplain Mary Krajovich.

The Rev. Jim Keelner spoke to the members about the food collection for the needy held during November and the Memorial Mass celebrated on Nov. 25 for those parishioners who died since November 1990.

Mandrell show trip planned

The Granite City Park District will sponsor a bus trip to the Fox Theater on Jan. 25 for the Barbara Mandrell Show, also featuring Roy Clark.

The bus will leave the Wilson Park Ice Rink at 1:30 p.m. and take the group to the newly expanded Galleria Shopping Mall for two hours, before going to the 5 p.m. Fox show.

Thirty-nine tickets will go on sale at 8 a.m. Tuesday. The full cost of the trip, $25, must be paid at the time of purchase.

One person may purchase no more than four tickets, with residents of the Granite City Park District having priority. Non-residents will be placed on a waiting list and will be notified after Jan. 2. Call 877-3059 for further information.

Kathy Dohnal

President Bunk thanked all who helped with the Church Women United Jubilee on Nov. 1.

Games were played and the white elephant prize was won by Vicki Perjak.

Hostesses were Vicki Perjak, Mary Pogoralec, Goldie Rozycka and Mildred Shifter.

Others attending were Helen Mooshegan, Ann Herman, Celi Kowalezyk, Vera Sikora, Catherine Suchic, Bea Stenitzer, Margaret Kulasz, Sister Bernadelle Elsiekmietz, Betty Bulva, Mary Clarke, Laura Hopfinger.

The Polish Hall Dancers of Madison performed on Dec. 8 for the Golden Agers of Holy Family Church.

The dancers were introduced by dance instructor Suzy Holmes.

Dancers performing for the first time was Frankie Holmes, Hannah Kutosky and William Kutosky.

Others were Toni Mendez, Kelly Gavlick, Jennifer Ramenle, Kendra Gravick, Cindy Bisio, Brittany Kult, Linda Dohnal, Ashley Krawiecki, Cookie Fields, Stephanie Kult, Robyn Fields, Alexis Lux, David Hartwick, Sonny Fields, Jennifer Hartwick, Michael Lux, Geoffrey Lux.

Jacqueline Bodkins

Steve and Tammy Bodkins of Pontoon Beach are parents of a girl.

The infant was born at 11:30 a.m. on Oct. 26, 1991, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The infant has been named Jacqueline Elizabeth Ann Bodkins.

She weighed 5 pounds, 12 ounces.

The couple has one other child, Justin A. Bodkins, 3.

The mother is the former Tammy Elaine Zeugin.

Maternal grandparents are Bob and Jackie Kirkover of Granite City.

Paternal grandparents are Don and Betty Basden of Edwardsville.

The great-grandmother is Nina Kirkover of Granite City.

Godparents are Ed and Georgia LaRue.

Cardinals celebrating centennial season in 1992

Cardinal baseball has electrified and captivated generations of fans. An endless line of Cardinals has written an illustrious history that will reach 100 years with the opening of the 1992 season.

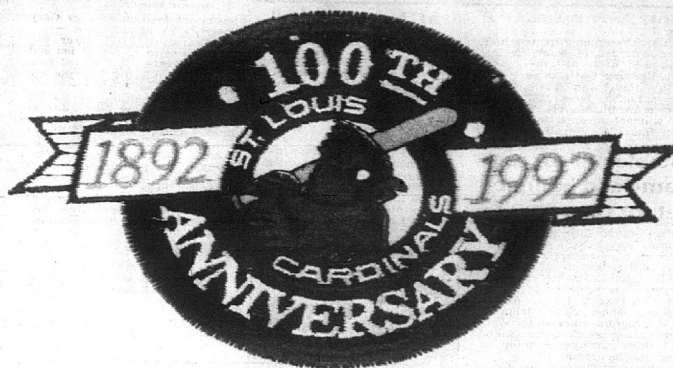

The Cardinals will celebrate their centennial with a wide range of special activities and promotions highlighted by a 100th anniversary "Centennial Celebration" on June 11.

"In planning our 100th anniversary activities, we wanted to salute both the great players who have worn the Cardinals' uniform and the great fans who have made the Cardinals one of the best organizations in Major League Baseball," said Marty Hendin, vice president of marketing for the team. "One of the best ways we could do that was to bring our players and fans together at Busch Stadium. We'll be bringing back more than 50 former Cardinal greats to be a part of the gala, including players, managers, broadcasters and others."

Details of the centennial celebration, including information on how fans can obtain tickets, will be announced later.

On June 14, when the Cardinals face the Philadelphia Phillies, many of the people involved in the festivities will take part in the Cardinals' Heroes of Baseball game, sponsored by Upper Deck. It will be played from 2:45-1:15 p.m., with the regular game scheduled to start at 2:15.

Unlike previous contests, the 1992 Heroes of Baseball game will pit Cardinals against each other.

"With so many former players in town, we will have the Cardinals playing the Cardinals," said Hendin. "That way, the Cardinals can't lose."

Throughout the season, a blue 100th anniversary commemorative patch will be displayed on the Cardinals' new uniforms. Additionally, a red version of the logo will appear on a variety of promotional items the team will offer.

September has been designated "Fan Appreciation Month."

During that month and three regular-season games in October, there will be a special fan appreciation promotion at every home game, including giveaway items, ticket discounts and others.

Every night game in September and October will start at 7:05, rather than the regular 7:35.

For more information, call the Cardinals at 314-421-3090.

GC freshmen win mat tournament

The Warriors won the eight-team Granite City Invitational freshman wrestling tournament Saturday.

Granite City edged Hazelwood East 141½-137 for the team title. Belleville East was third with 105 points. Placing for the Warriors were 103-pounder Tim Fulkerson (first), 112-pounder Brian Schooley (third), 119-pounder Jason Hitchcock (fourth), 130-pounder Todd Williams (third), 135-pounder Mark Barron (second), 140-pounder Jeff Morris (first), 152-pounder Tony Buchek (first), 160-pounder Jason Potter (first), 171-pounder Ted Christiansen (second), and 275-pounder Jim Rogers (fourth).

Six local winners in Elks Hoop Shoot

Three boys and three girls, ages 8-13, won the first round of competition in the Elks Hoop Shoot free throw contest at Grigsby Junior High School on Dec. 7.

City championship trophies were awarded to Noah Carter, boys 8-9; Kelly Mitchell, girls 8-9; Bradley Goff, boys 10-11; Cathy Haverman, girls 10-11; Steve Logan, boys 12-13; and Denise McMillan, girls 12-13. The six winners advance to the district finals in Centralia on Feb. 1.

GC alumni soccer game and banquet set for Dec. 27-28

The Granite City High School alumni soccer banquet will be held at St. Gregory's Hall on Dec. 28 beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The alumni game will be played the night before at Soccer For Fun from 9-11 p.m. At the banquet, dinner will be followed by a program emceed by Warrior soccer coach Gene Baker and there will be dancing to close out the evening.

Tickets are $10 and are available from Terry Dutko, Roseanne Blasson, Jim's Cuts & Styles and Sheridan Drug Store.

MAC has basketball signups in December

The Mitchell Athletic Club will be having signups for third through sixth graders for basketball this month.

The signups will be held at Gene's Barber Shop at the corner of Chain of Rocks and Lenox in Mitchell. Dates are Dec. 18-20 and Dec. 22 from 6-8 p.m. There will be a $12 registration fee for each child.

Practice will start in January. Anyone interested in coaching a team or officiating games should contact Dave Slay at 931-3690 or come to the signups.

team are leading scorers Gary Sney and Fernando Grant. Edwardsville no longer has Joe Blasingma, Jason Heien and Jarvis Wooten, but the Tigers are 2-0 and still play the up-tempo game.

They're doing the same things and have (Jason) Boyd and (Andrew) Thompson back," said Ohlenford. "Justin) Range shot very well from the outside when we saw them play. They're a perimeter-oriented team, so we'll have to get after them out there."

Lucco Gym was the scene of the Warriors' best effort last year, a thrilling 92-90 overtime win on Jeff Smith's layup at the buzzer. He also tied it with basket as regulation time expired. Senior guard Drake Marshall leads the Warriors with a 19.5 point average through two games. Jeff Smith is averaging 13.5 points and 10.5 rebounds. Guard Michael Dochwat is averaging 10 points, while Brian Smith has averaged 9.5 points and 7.0 rebounds.

The far has taken more of a toll this week than Chicago King, Brian Smith, John Cozair and Larry Mosby all missed practice early in the week.

"Larry still wasn't back in school (Tuesday)," said Ohlenford. "We can afford about one more day before we have to get it going for the weekend."

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes a parent who is not awarded custody in the original judgment of dissolution later wishes to seek a modification of custody. The question arises in these cases as to what standard the Court will apply when deciding whether custody should be changed.

Illinois law provides that a court shall not modify a prior custody judgment unless it finds by clear and convincing evidence that a change has occurred in the circumstances of the child or his custodian. The non-custodial parent will also have to show that the modification is necessary to serve the best interest of the child.

In one recent case, a marriage was dissolved in 1979, and the mother received custody of the five-year-old and two-year-old sons. The father was given liberal visitation rights which included alternate weekends, holidays and summer vacations. The mother later remarried and moved to Texas. The man whom she married was verbally and physically abusive toward the boys, and eventually the mother of the children turned them over to her mother who still resided in Illinois.

The grandmother eventually realized that she was unable to take care of the children, and she in turn asked the father of the boys to take them. The father had remarried in 1981, and he and his wife willingly adopted a home for both children. Eventually the older child went back to live with his mother, but the father refused to surrender the younger child when the mother demanded his return in January of 1986. The father finally filed a petition to modify child custody asking that custody of the younger boy be awarded to him.

In this case, the Court had to decide whether a change in circumstances had occurred since custody was originally awarded to the mother. The Court felt that it was in the best interest of the child to award residential custody to the father, since there was a close, loving relationship in his home. The Court noted that the younger boy had adjusted well as a student and an athlete since he came to live with the father. This was to be contrasted with the previous stressful environment that led to the boy's bed-wetting and nightmares while he was in the mother's custody. The Court felt that it would be tempting fate to give the child back to the mother in light of the previous problems encountered in her home.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING THIS WEEKEND THAT'S SO IMPORTANT YOU CAN'T TEST YOUR HOME FOR RADON?

Radon is a naturally occurring, deadly radioactive gas that finds its way into millions of homes all over the country. It's the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

Fortunately, testing your home for radon is quick and easy. Test kits are inexpensive. And homes with high levels of radon can be fixed.

Yet many Americans still haven't found the time to test their homes and find out if radon is threatening their families.

If you haven't tested for radon yet, pick up a kit this weekend. Or call for more information today.

slim lead most of the night and made 18 trips to the free-throw line to only eight for the home team.

"Our offense still isn't clicking," said Wesclin coach Terry Brinkman. "But I'm happy with the defense. We had to keep (Marcus) Franklin from hurting us too much inside and we had to control Anderson on the perimeter."

"It's a lot easier doing that right now. When (Ivan) Johnson comes back, it will be much harder to defense Venice. But I'll take it now."

Johnson is the Devils' leading returning scorer, but he's out until the second semester to grades. Franklin was able to shake loose for 20 points, including several crowd-pleasing dunks, but the outside shooting wasn't there to complement him.

"We seemed to put it all together in our last game (a 73-54 win over Brentwood on Saturday)," said Harris. "We were coming home, but we just couldn't get it going. Our defense really wasn't that good, either."

Keeping the score low had to work to Wesclin's advantage, although that wasn't their intention. They led 22-18 at halftime, but Franklin dished off to Ben McIntyre for the tying basket late in the third quarter, then Franklin took a pass from Anderson for a dunk to give Venice a 31-29 lead heading into the final period.

Hempen hit a couple of tough baseline jumpers for a 35-35 tie. Then Love stepped out of bounds as he took a pass on the sidelines as the Devils tried to work the clock with 2:35 left.

"You have to know where you are at all times," said Harris. "It's silly mistakes like that which cost you games."

Hempen made a free throw with 1:40 left. He missed the second, but Clay Macke got the rebound for Wesclin. Anderson fouled out, and Macke made both free throws with 1:22 left for a 42-39 Warrior lead. Franklin and Wiley missed three-pointers at the other end and Hempen made one of two free throws with 15 seconds left. Love finally made the only three-pointer of the game with 10 seconds left, but Hempen made one more free throw with four seconds left to make it 44-42.

The Devils had one more chance, but sophomore Richard Jones made a bad pass and they never got a shot off.

ten in the Suburban Journals coaches poll Monday afternoon. "Chasteen is something like 5-4 (actually, 5-5) and she was rebounding her own shots and putting them in," said Lobdell. "We let them wait through the middle all night. The Lady Warriors ran into problems with the Kahok press which forced 13 turnovers. When Granite City was able to get the ball up the floor, the shooting wasn't there. They made only 20 of 66 (30 percent). Many of the missed shots were from close range."

"My girls didn't come to play tonight, it's as simple as that," said Lobdell. "If someone would have told me that Collinsville was going to hold us to 16 points in the first half, I'd had thought I had miscalculated somewhere."

The Lady Warriors didn't resemble at all the team that beat Belleville West on Saturday. Karen Sykes, the MVP of that game with 25 points, scored six Monday. Jamie Caviness led Granite City with 12 points Monday, while Stephanie Kuld added 12 points and 15 rebounds. Collinsville's only loss came to the Maroons.

The Kahoks got out to a 9-3 lead out to 9-8 on Kami Kessel's three-pointer. But the shooting woes continued as Collinsville opened up a 29-14 lead late in the half on two free throws by Kami Crakovich.

The Lady Warriors' big three of Sykes, Caviness and Dana Dresch made three of 18 shots in the opening half, and the team was six of 28.

"I thought we still had a chance after the first half," said Lobdell. "We were down by 13, but it wasn't like they were shooting well, either."

The Kahoks shot 27 percent in the first half, including one of 11 from three-point range. But Collinsville was outshooting Granite City on both ends of the floor.

"We applied the full-court pressure and it was our hope that we could force them into some mistakes," said Harrington. "They have a young guard (Kessel) and we have a lot of quickness. We got a very good effort tonight."

"We have to be aggressive on the road, and we weren't in this game," said Lobdell. "They hit the boards and they were getting several opportunities every time down."

It was nothing different in the second half. Collinsville led by as much as 23.

"This was a big win for us," said Harrington. "We don't have superior talent, but the girls are confident they'll win some games."

nightmare depending on which side you're on — came from different backgrounds. Griffith made a name for himself at Marcus Garvey Grade School, where he averaged 20 points a game. Hamilton earned his reputation on the Chicago playgrounds.

"Tommy and I became pretty good friends during the summer after we graduated from eighth grade," Griffith said. "We met up at a recreation center sponsored by King High School. We hit it off right away."

"It's a lot of fun playing together," Hamilton said. "Rashard and I complement each other. The lane is our territory and nobody's going to take it from us."

Not many have, but Hamilton is quick to say that he and Griffith aren't the whole team.

"If they key on me, Rashard's open," he said. "Or it's just the opposite. Our goal is to be an unstoppable force."

"But the talent doesn't stop with us. There are a few other guys on this team that can hurt you."

They credit point guard Ronald Minter with running the ball.

"He lays the ball right in there for us," said Hamilton. "If the middle's tied up, he can nail the jumpers."

But like their coach, Landon Cox, the big guys aren't always loved by their opponents. They had a bit of a souring affect on Granite City's own twin towers, Brian and Jeff Smith, after Saturday's game.

"They're good, but they're not as great as people say they are," Jeff Smith said. "I didn't appreciate those guys not shaking our hands after the game. That's my feeling right now."

"They're talented," Brian Smith said. "I felt I gave it my best out there, but they just wore me out by the middle stages of the second half."

"They're very strong. Once they lay those bodies on you, it's tough to get up and down the floor. But they're not Shaquille O'Neal."

Meanwhile, Cox taught Hamilton the importance of playing defense.

"Tommy can score," Cox said. "That's his middle name, but the guy isn't taking anybody out when he got here."

"It's a lot of work playing defense," Hamilton said. "I've been a hard to improve. He's taught me to use my body as a shield in the lane."

er, St. Peters, Rick Whyers and Naeve scored in the third period. Weaver, Zirkelbach and St. Peters led the onslaught with four points each. Naeve had three points.

"We started playing as a team later in the game," said Hinterer. "We were pressing a little at first. Their goalie was hot. He was making some big saves and keeping the game closer than it should have been."

Weaver made it a 10-point weekend with two goals and four assists Saturday. St. Peters scored four goals and had an assist for a nine-point weekend. Naeve had the hat trick and two assists to give him eight points in the two games. Zirkelbach, the Warriors' leading scorer a year ago, had seven points in two games. He's tied for second on the team with St. Peters and Naeve just a point behind Jaros.

"The Kirkwood game really lifted our confidence," Hinterer said of the 2-1 win over the defending Mid-States Club Hockey Association champions Dec. 2. "We haven't given the weaker teams many openings at all since then. It's tough playing some of these teams because they don't have many skaters at all."

The Warriors host Oakville on Monday and a good Parkway South team Tuesday. They host Hazelwood East on Dec. 23 and then play McCluer North again at the North County Recreation Center on Dec. 30.

"Parkway South is by far the toughest team in that group," said Hinterer. "We need to get wins now because things will get tough in January. We're going to be missing as many as six of our best players the first week-end when they're out of town in a tournament, and we go through a busy schedule against some of the better teams."

But for now, the Warriors are enjoying plenty of pre-holiday fun.

Psalm 104:1-4 ... Seek the Lord, and his strength.

The idea expressed throughout the Bible is that we should seek the Lord. We must turn to God for help and strength in time of need. He is not going to fail us. He will give us strength.

Our move toward God may be by a prayer, by church attendance, reading the Bible, or calling a Christian friend for advice and prayer. This is certain. When we seek with all our heart then we will find Him.

The Psalmist asks that we seek the Lord and His strength. He says of this, that when we turn to God for help and strength in time of need, He is not going to fail us. He will give us strength. God has all power in Heaven and in earth. He wants to share his power with us. His strength is our strength. What belongs to Him belongs to his children. Believe that. Confess that. Don't accept anything less than that. The devil is a thief and a liar. He wants to steal your testimony. He can do this by keeping our confession negative. Be positive! Say what God said and you will have His strength. "And you shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you, and you shall be witnesses unto me." Have a good, strong, and powerful week.

Keeping track of investments need not be time-consuming

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

For physical fitness, health experts recommend a half-hour of vigorous activity at least three times a week. Fiscal fitness—tracking your savings and investments to ensure your money is working for you—can be had in as little as 30 minutes a week, local financial advisers maintain.

Such a commitment of time and energy "makes you a better informed investor," says Don Weir, president of Longrow Capital Management in Creve Coeur.

Developing the saving habit and tracking the performance of your investments is a lot like being on a diet and then keeping off the weight, adds Stephen Wedel, a financial planner with America Group in Creve Coeur. "If you take the steady approach that's easy to work with, it will work," he says.

Devoting 30 minutes a week to overseeing your portfolio will ensure that your money is working for you as you intended, that those long-term growth stocks will ripen into a hefty retirement nest egg, that fast-growth mutual fund will generate the resources necessary to pay for the kids' college education. That stance, advisers argue, puts you in charge and ensures your investment moves are deliberate and considered, instead of knee-jerk reactions to short-term Wall Street trends.

Tracking the price of your stocks every week isn't the best use of your 30-minute review, financial counselors explain, particularly if the investor has taken care to invest in quality issues. Such continual price-watching could lead you to sell your holdings once the stock reaches a price you've arbitrarily set, says John Terrell, of Terrell & Co. in Des Peres.

Others don't see any harm in jotting down the value of investments each week. If the investor views the ritual as something of a hobby, Richard Roland, planner in the Crestwood office of Arlington Securities, figures such regular price-tracking helps investors better understand the ups and downs of Wall Street.

"Then they won't be frightened by what they see on the evening news," Roland says, adding that such broadcasts often exaggerate the impact of economic pluses and minuses.

An investor can better use his limited time reading reports and press releases issued each week by a company in which he is investing,

Terrell says. The first step is to call the investor relations department to get on its mailing list and then collect any mail from the company in one place so it will be easy to peruse during the 30-minute review.

Adds Weir: "That will tell you more (about the health of your investment) than the investment gurus." Weir says.

Moreover, because many of the items companies mail out never make the newspaper, investors on the mailing list have information many other investors are unaware of, Terrell says, adding, "You're ahead of the game a little bit."

For example, if management complains in a press release about its inability to maintain market share in the recession, there may be reason for the investor to watch that stock more closely, financial advisers say.

Advance notice of bad news can also come from watching Wall Street. If your stock's price slips a sizable amount during the week in active trading, even though the stock market itself was rather ordinary, "that's usually a bad sign, a sign some bad news is going to come out," says George Peters, a stock broker for Dean Witter in Clayton. The increased sale activity shows that some people already have gotten word about the bad news and are bailing out.

And frequently, says Peters, "The first bad news is usually not the last bad news."

How should an investor react to the bad news? If it alters the character of the stock—turns a solid long-term performer into a company struggling with day-to-day operations and an eye focused entirely on short-term performance—then perhaps the investor ought to switch into a stock that more closely fits his investment objectives, Peters says.

A case in point are falling interest rates. Owners of certificates of deposit who regularly reviewed rate levels were prepared to renew maturing CDs at considerably lower interest or, more likely, to move into higher-yielding vehicles, Weir says. Juli Niemann, a financial analyst with Hunteigh Securities in Clayton, concurs in the wisdom of regularly reviewing the health of investments. But she argues that 30 minutes a week is too much.

Her recommendation: Spend a day every three months or so at the public library, pouring over the latest reports issued by the company, by analysts and by investment research outfits such as Value Line.

"Your local library is a wonderful source of cheap and useful information," she says.

Addresses life underwriters

Charles Tzinberg was the speaker at a recent meeting of the Lewis and Clark Association of Life Underwriters, held at the Alton Holiday Inn.

He is a principal in the certified public accounting firm of Tzinberg and Goldenberg, a professional corporation with offices at 2132 Pontoon Road in Granite City.

His talk was titled "Tax Planning for the Successful Insurance Agent" and suggested various methods of reducing income taxes.

Tzinberg has returned from four days in San Diego at the annual convention held by Creative Solutions Inc. He attended seminars covering business valuations, tax case highlights, Internal Revenue Service practices and procedures, estate planning and litigation support.

Realtor earns designation

Bev George, broker/owner of Bev George & Associates, was awarded the nationally recognized Certified Real Estate Brokerage Manager designation during the annual convention of the National Association of Realtors in November at Las Vegas.

George, a former Granite City resident, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henderson. The CRB is the highest award real estate brokerage managers can receive. Fewer than 1 percent of the approximately 800,000 Realtors nationwide achieve the designation.

George earned a bachelor's degree in 1975 and master's degree in 1977 from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. In real estate since 1976, she is a life member of the Million Dollar Club and a graduate of the Realtors Institute.

A past president of the Holishor Association, she taught at Highland High School and SIUE. She lives at Holiday Shores with her husband, John, and three-year-old daughter, Sarah Elizabeth.

Investment pro wins recognition

Colonial Mutual Funds, a Boston-based mutual funds company, has named Dennis Nobbe to its 1991 Leadership Council.

Nobbe, a resident of Glen Carbon, has been an investment professional for more than five years. Currently, Nobbe is a branch manager with Linscoe/Private Ledger in Granite City.

He is a member of the Granite City Rotary Club and Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

State corn title goes

Illinois has to give up any claim to the title of being the number one corn or soybean state this year.

If estimates hold true, this year's statewide corn yield, estimated at 110 bushels per acre, would be the state's fourth poorest yield in the past 14 years.

It would beat only the 73 bushels per acre in 1988, 79 bushels per acre in 1989, and 93 bushels per acre in 1980. The record is 135 bushels in 1985 and 1986.

Based on the 110 bushel estimate, Illinois farmers will harvest a 1.2-billion-bushel corn crop, 8 percent less than 1990, according to the Illinois Agricultural Statistics Service.

That puts Illinois in second place among corn-growing states. Iowa takes the number one title in both corn and soybeans with a 1.38-billion-bushel corn crop and a 348-million-bushel soybean crop.

Local women wins 'Back to School' contest

Mary Butler of Madison, is a deliciously happy person.

Butler runs the office at the garage she and her husband Bill own, Harris Street Auto Repair in Madison. Every Saturday Mary Butler goes to Bennett Auto Supply, the All Pro Auto Parts store at 2219 Madison in Granite City to settle the garage's account.

When All Pro began its "Back to School Bonanza" contest Aug. 15, Mary Butler was given a scratch-off contest card. Instant winners received prizes ranging from $5 cash to screw drivers or quarts of motor oil.

Those contest cards also were entered in a drawing for a home computer. After the contest closed Sept. 30, Mary Butler's card was drawn. The drawing was held at Motor Parts Warehouse in St. Louis, the All-Pro representative in this area.

The Butlers plan to put the new Apple Macintosh P.C. to work in the office.

"I have a friend who has a Macintosh and she says it's great. She'll help me set it up for the business," Mary Butler said.

Butler received her prize during a special presentation ceremony Nov. 27 at Bennett Auto Supply. The personal computer will be presented by Doug LaRico, president of Motor Parts Warehouse, Vito LaRico, the company's sales manager and Lori Cable, All Pro marketing coordinator.

Butler is now eligible for the grand prize in All Pro Auto Parts' national "Back to School Bonanza," an all-expense-paid trip for four days to New York, including tickets to Broadway shows. The winner will also receive a tour of the city and its main tourist attractions.

Cars, trucks, tractors, motor homes to be auctioned Saturday

Nearly 100 vehicles, including cars, pickup trucks, a couple motor homes and farm tractors, sail spreaders and a road grader, will go on the auction block 8 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 14, at the Illinois State Fairgrounds in Springfield. The state-owned vehicles will be sold "as is" to the highest bidders by Central Management Services (CMS).

"The selection includes agency vehicles, State Police patrol cars, and other assorted vehicles, including both 1/2-ton and 3/4-ton pickups," according to Stephen B. Schnorf, CMS director.

"Although most have high mileage, they have been well-maintained by state mechanics and can be a real bargain for someone looking for a low-priced second vehicle as a winter car or fishing car."

Vehicles may be inspected Thursday and Friday, Dec. 12-13, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and up to the time of sale on Saturday.

Potential buyers can enter the fairgrounds at gate 11 off Sangamon Avenue and turn left at the H Building. To participate in the auction, bidders must register on the day of the sale beginning at 7 p.m.

Bidders can pay for vehicles with cash, certified check, money order or travelers checks in increments of $100 or less. Business or personal checks also are accepted, but must be supported by a letter of credit from a financial institution that includes the maximum amount of credit approved. Two types of identification must also be provided, including one with a photograph.

No upswing foreseen for hiring scene

A flat employment picture is expected to persist in the St. Louis area heading into 1992, based on the 1992 First Quarter Employment Outlook Survey findings.

The survey is by Manpower Inc., the world's largest temporary help firm.

The survey by local Manpower official Ron Ramler, the report for January, February and March shows 13 percent forecasted personnel reductions. Another 74 percent expect no changes.

Ramler said, "Employers are typically reserved in their first-quarter staffing plans and an added consideration this year is the perception of a slow national economic recovery."

"Results were nearly identical three months ago when 12 percent predicted hiring gains and another 12 percent forecasted reduced labor needs. One year ago, 10 percent expected to add workers while 17 percent anticipated lower workforce levels."

"This winter, job opportunities look best in non-durable goods manufacturing and education. Industries expected to cut back include services and transportation/public utilities."

"On a national basis, 15 percent of those interviewed are expected to increase staff and 15 percent expect employment decreases, while 67 percent will remain at present levels and 3 percent are not yet certain."

"The appearance of no progress, however, is deceiving. When the impact of seasonal variation is removed, expectations match those of three months ago, which was the highest deseasonalized level in a year."

"Of the 10 industries surveyed, four indicate positive net hiring strength, and these four represent over half the employed labor force. They include both durable and non-durable goods manufacturing, finance, insurance and real estate, and services. So the best job prospects are among the largest industries."

Christian harpist to perform

Christian musician Greg Buchanan is working to change the public perception of harp music.

Buchanan will perform a harp concert at 7 p.m. Dec. 18 at the First Baptist Church of O'Fallon.

"Greg's aggressive style of playing usually redefines the listeners' concept of performance on the harp," said Dr. Lloyd Jones, pastor of the First Baptist Church of O'Fallon.

Buchanan, who began playing the harp at age 9, has played harp solos in every type of music including jazz, pop, classical and gospel. He has toured coast to coast and abroad performing harp concerts and performed at the National Religious Broadcasters Convention, the Gospel Music Dove Awards, Billy Graham Crusades and the Southern Baptist Conventions.

He is one of the most sought after Christian musicians in the country, Jones said.

Buchanan has released six harp albums. He plays the Salvi Harp, Kinnor Harp and the Celtic Irish Folk Harp.

The concert will follow a dinner at the church. The cost of the dinner will be $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12. Reservations must be made by noon Tuesday, Dec. 17. For reservations, call the church at 632-6223.

BAC Choir to sing Friday

The Belleville Area College Choir, under the direction of Dr. A. Dennis Sparger, will present its Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday at St. Paul United Church of Christ, Second and B streets in Belleville.

The concert is free and open to the public.

The choir will perform selections by Mozart, Vadiana, Rutter, Barnard, and St. Louis composer Michael Richardson. The Chamber Singers will perform three numbers from Britten's "Ceremony of Carols."

Soloists for the concert will include Valerie Barrs of Lebanon, Tara Long of O'Fallon, Erica Miller of Red Bud, Mark Clem of O'Fallon, and Lori Anne Mooney and Willie E. Hitchcock, both of Belleville.

The program will open with an organ prelude played by Janet Spencer, accompanist for the College Choir.

New version of 'Christmas Carol'

The legendary characters of Charles Dickens will come to life in a new stage version of "A Christmas Carol" to be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 19-21, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 22, all in the Communications Building Theater of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The new version of the Dickens classic, an adaptation by SUE's Lynn F. Kluth, a professor of theater and acting chairman of the department of theater and dance, follows the famous author's story of Ebenezer Scrooge, the embittered reprobate who finds the true humanity in Christmas after visits from three spirits.

According to Kluth, his adaptation also follows closely the mandate of Dickens himself, who considered the piece a "ghost story" more than a tale of Christmas. "We'll be using all the theatrical devices and special effects we can muster to emphasize the supernatural aspects of the story," the professor said.

"Of course, we're also going to keep the Christmas message in the story," he said. "In fact, we're encouraging the audience to join in singing Christmas carols at various points during the play."

Tickets for each performance are $5; senior citizens, SIUE faculty and staff, students and children ages 12 and younger, $3.50. For reservations, persons may call the SIUE department of theater and dance box office at 692-2774.

Anundant Life show Sunday

"The Way It Used to Be," the seventh annual production of Abundant Life Center Church, will be held from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday at the Stouffer Concourse Hotel, 9801 Natural Bridge, St. Louis. Tickets are $10; for reservations or information, call 426-7794.

'My Girl' film loses out to cheap ending

Puppy love melodrama that considers the biting question of death

By Harry Hamm

Correspondent

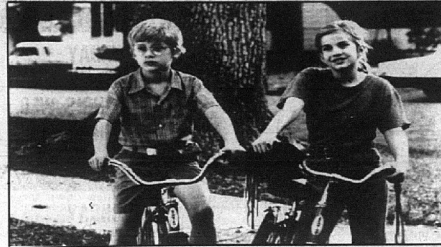

Kleenex and the need to have a good cry are two prerequisites for enjoying the Columbia release, "My Girl," a film that can be aptly described as a "Terms of Endearment" clone for seventh-graders.

America's favorite young boy actor, 11-year-old Macaulay Culkin, is part of this cast. However, what could become America's favorite young girl actress, 10-year-old Anna Chlumsky, is actually the headliner of this puppy love melodrama that considers the biting question of what to do after your best friend dies of a bee sting.

Set in 1972 in the town of Madison, Pa., Chlumsky plays Vada Sultenfuss, the daughter of a widowed, rotund mortician named Harry Sultenfuss, who is played by Dan Aykroyd. Vada's mother died after giving birth to her.

Aykroyd's booming girl is the most noticeable element of his sleepy performance. He gives his character about as much life as the cadavers Harry works on every day.

Jamie Lee Curtis contributes a wee bit of light comic relief as Shelly DeVoto, a free-spirited

Macaulay Culkin and Anna Chlumsky are best friends in "My Girl."

cosmetologist whose devotion to her employer's clientele is total. "I promise I'll take good care of these people," Shelly says to Harry when he's considering hiring her. "They deserve it. They're dead. All they've got left is their looks."

Curtis' character also provides a love interest for Harry, but it's a pairing that never sparks.

Macaulay Culkin is Thomas J. Sennett, Vada's best friend, and better known as Thomas J. He perseveres through Vada's pre-teen traumas, including the fact that Vada is a hypochondriac who is convinced she has prostate cancer, among other imaginary ills.

Griffin Dunne appears in "My Girl" as a creative writing teacher on whom Vada has a crush. Richard Masur plays Harry's lively older brother. Ann Nelson is Vada's senile grandmother who lives in stony silence.

To say "My Girl" is a cute picture is an understatement. This calculated tearjerker, although awkward and not fully developed when it comes to scripting, manages to find cute in every scene and ram it down your throat.

Since the word is out that Culkin's character dies after an unlikely encounter with a bee hive, it gives nothing away to say this manipulative part of the story will have most of the audience all choked up.

However, I thought the sight of the "Home Alone" kid embalmed and in a coffin was a particularly maudlin, inarticulate way to bring this airy little bit of fluff to a finale.

This time of year, it will hurt the most at the box office.

Rated PG. The death of Culkin's character could be disturbing for small children. Running time: 102 minutes.

Showing at Chesterfield, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Keller, Mid Rivers, Northwest Plaza, Union Station, Regency Square, Crestwood, Esquire, St. Clair, Eastgate.

Opera Theatre to host soprano

Opera Theatre of St. Louis will present soprano Katherine Terrell and bass-baritone Thomas Barrett at 12:30 p.m. Dec. 19 at Christ Church Cathedral, 1210 Locust, St. Louis. This concert is free and open to the public.

Underwritten by a grant from Metropolitan Life Foundation, a series of concerts also is being offered at a reduced rate to schools, churches and community organizations in the metro St. Louis area, providing them with the opportunity to hear selections from opera, operetta, musical theatre, and the holiday repertoire.

The repertoire and the character of each performance will be specially tailored to suit each audience.

School concerts will take place at Northwest High School, Normandy High School, Barretts Elementary School, Marquette Middle School, Reed School and a special performance at the Engineer's Club for chorus members from several St. Louis public high schools and middle schools who will be bussed to the Engineer's Club for the occasion.

The artists will also perform for senior citizen residents at the Gatesworth, and for the Orchard House in Webster Groves.

Additional performances will take place at the St. Louis County Juvenile Detention Center, the Press Club of Metropolitan St. Louis, Temple Israel Sisterhood and for employees at Monsanto.

The majority of students for whom Terrell and Barrett will perform have never seen or heard an opera singer before. Performances offer the opportunity for interaction and discussion.

Opera Theatre of Saint Louis is a funded member of the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis.
